

South Dakota Retirement System

Funded Status Summary and Fact Sheet

May 2009

The South Dakota Retirement System (SDRS) is a cost-sharing multiple employer public employee retirement system. That means that almost all public employees in South Dakota are together in a retirement plan that shares the cost of retirement, survivor and disability benefits. All participating public employers and their full-time employees contribute to the plan. It is designed to provide a quality retirement plan as effectively and efficiently as possible. In addition to lifetime pension benefits, SDRS also sponsors two voluntary retirement savings plans.

Funded Status Summary:

- The SDRS measures of actuarial soundness substantially exceed funding standards and exceed virtually all similar systems. (Fiscal Year 2008 Market Value Funded Ratio – 104%)
- The System’s Reserves have protected the plan in down times and may make benefit improvements possible when times are good.
- Investment performance in fiscal year 2008 was -8.65%. Plan assets of about $7.3B. (As of 4-30-09 Plan Assets - $5.6B)
